Monday, January 7, 2008

Selectmen Linda Saari, Clarence Farwell, James McElroy and Bill Owens were present.

Police

Linda said she received a phone call from a woman whose son was stopped and was told the car wasn't registered but it actually was. When the woman called the police department, Freda hung up on her. Soon afterwards that night the woman saw a flashlight in her yard and asked who it was. The answer was "you know who it is". She couldn't see who it was and asked again and the officer referred to his cruiser and then asked if her son was there. Upon leaving the officer slammed the cruiser door. Linda questioned training for officers and have they been working without being full time certified and what training they are receiving. Linda suggested the selectmen talk to the chief. The other selectmen agreed.
